

Bledsoe County, TN

GREATER CHATTANOOGA
ECONOMIC PARTNERSHIP

Bledsoe County is located in eastern Tennessee on the edge of the Cumberland Plateau and strategically positioned near major metropolitan areas. Three major interstates I-40, I-75, and I-24 are less than an hour away. A north and south route to I-40 and I-24 is provided by U.S. 127, while State Hwy. 30 connects the county to I-75.

The Chattanooga Metropolitan Airport, located within 60 miles of Bledsoe County offers non-stop service to nine locations throughout the U.S. Air cargo is also available. Airlines serving the Chattanooga airport include: Allegiant, American Airlines, American Eagle, Delta and United Airlines. Bledsoe County has a variety of properties available for manufacturing, warehousing, or service centers. The county is part of the 11-county Foreign Trade Zone 134.

Bledsoe County High School opened a career and technical education center in 2015. Curriculum includes instruction related to automotive, carpentry and electric, and welding. A selection of community and technical colleges are all within a short drive.

Located in Pikeville, TN, Erlanger Bledsoe Hospital brings academic medical expertise to residents of the Cumberland Plateau and Sequatchie Valley, including the Dunlap and Crossville communities. In addition to 24/7 emergency services, the community hospital offers family primary care, the Sequatchie valley's only cardiac rehabilitation program, and a 25-bed inpatient unit. As part of the UT Erlanger Health System, a weekly clinic is also provided staffed by board-certified physicians in cardiology and women's services.

Fall Creek Falls, just a short drive west of the county seat of Pikeville, is Tennessee's' largest and most visited state park. The county is also home to popular farms some of which have managed to expand their products' market well beyond Southeast Tennessee. Beef is an especially popular export.

Meanwhile, downtown Pikeville has many features of a traditional downtown including a mix of uses, walkable streets, public parks, historic buildings with fascinating histories, and unique local businesses. These assets are the foundation of the city's and county's economic development strategy.

Target Markets include Automotive, Healthcare and Retail.
